

Praise the Lord, praise the Lord, praise the Lord....

[1] My Hope Thailand - We have been able to contact 86% of the participating churches and we are excited by the results. (We are also excited that we exceeded our goal of getting up to 80% of the churches.)

- 181,442 viewers
- 10,372 decisions
- 21,861 that are still interested to learn more...

[2] This Thursday there will be a nationwide gathering of 300 leaders who have been involved in this outreach to come and praise the Lord. This gathering/meeting will also be a time to challenge and send out this leaders to reach the unreached. Three years ago, the focus was to reach all 927 'counties' throughout the country. (There are still about 100 that are unreached.) But now this meeting will challenge us to focus on taking the Good News to the 3,830 towns (of 7,416) that have not heard the Gospel!

[3] This past Saturday the Eavngcubes arrived on my front door... for those who have prayed and want to know what the Lord had to teach me, I am happy to share with you the lessons learnt during the 5 week ordeal - something I would not want to repeat again.

Please pray with me (for me) to have God's guidance to get these into the hands of the right people.

Here is a link to the a short video that shows how they are used...

[4] Six and 1/2 years ago when we moved into our present home we asked you to pray with us that God would bring us neighbors who needed to know Him.... and for many years you prayed for the neighbor to our side, a Mrs. Walls (because she had many 'emotional-spiritual' walls that she had built up around her. We are thankful to God for the change of her heart. She now calls herself a part of our family - and we look forward to her becoming a part of God's family in the not-too-long future.

Now, this picture (below) is our view from the front porch - a beautiful picture of a mountain range that we love watching, especially as the sun sets behind it in the evenings. All this is about to end... in the near future as a new family has started the building of their home right in front of us! In this picture there are two 'center poles' to the house, and both have been dedicated to the spirits... by looking at the picture to the right, you might see a bunch of bananas and some ribbons tied to this pole..... Will you please pray with us for this new family - shall we call them the "Blocks" - as they are blocking our view to God's creation. Pray that our family, our example, our witness may not block them from seeing Christ!

[5] Finally, for those of you who think you know me... here is a picture that might set the record straight!!!!

What I don't get is this... The folks who direct this Christmas Pageant, say that I am just the right person for this role of King Herod.... hmmm what could they mean?

[6] Keep praying for our relationship with Mark... he will have 3-4 good days, and then we encounter a melt-down. We are thankful that they are not as severe as they used to be, yet we continue to look for insights as to what contributes to these moments. (We are also getting better to not allow ourselves get crushed by his words...) Father God help, us.

Thank you,

Bruce & Lori
